

North Adams, Mass. Aug. 3 1893.

Mr. Hon. Albion W. Tourgee

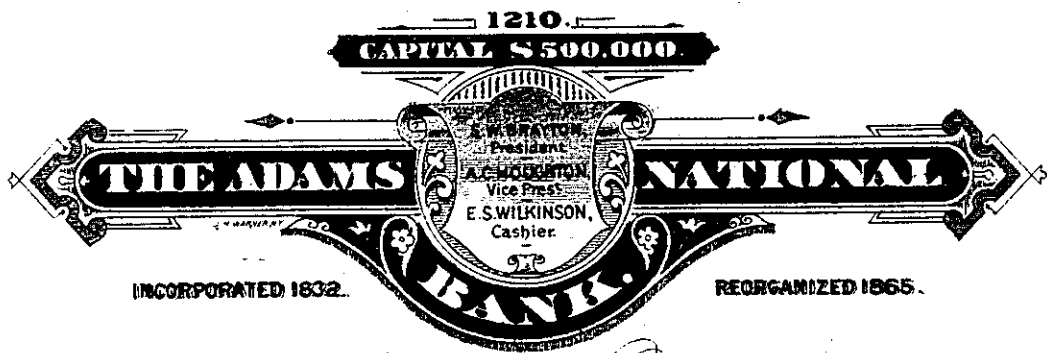

Marville, N. C.

My dear Sir:

Dear Sir

God bless her name again. I should all the teachers you have stood upon this question as you have stood me implicit themselves upon you as I hope you would count your suffrages, perhaps, lower when they take of our colored brethren.

I send this hoping it may cheer your heart (a little) to know that your work is bearing fruit. You will recognize much as familiar to "Baptists", but in spite of the reporters' lack of quotation marks failing me I can do credit when I used your words. It was well received and has awakened no little interest in the community.

Yours most respectfully,
Francis K. Rowley.
