NEW YORK

August 3, 1893.

Dear Sir:

The race question is one of the most important and vital issues now before the American public, and anything looking to its final solution is sure to be cordially welcomed as weighty and valuable. We are securing for publication simultaneously in some sixty of the leading papers of the United States the views of those best qualified to speak on the question, "What Shall We Do With the Negro?" By this is meant what remedies shall be applied, moral, educational, political and industrial, with the strongest hope of solving the race question. Representative thinkers of both races have favored us with their views on the subject, and we greatly desire a brief expression of your own to supplement those already secured. Your position and experience entitle you to speak with authority, and we shall count it an especial favor if you will let us hear from you at an early day.

Yours truly,

Manager.

I am especially anxious to have a brief expression from you on the above to introduce the symposium we are preparing and shall be glad to compensate you for the same. Can I hope to hear from you soon?
