THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

Philadelphia

Edited by
EDWARD W. BOK

October 4, 1893.

My dear Mrs. Tourgee:-

I wish I could accept the enclosed poem by Judge Tourgee, but it is not quite within the line of verse most popular with us, and is a little longer than I like our poetry to be. However, I hope you will not let this unfortunate return deter you from sending me something else from Jude Tourgee's pen, for I should like it very much to have him as one of The Ladies' Home Journal's contributors.

Appreciating most heartily the courtesy of your remembrance, I remain,

Faithfully yours,

Mrs. Albion W. Tourgee, Edward W. Bok
