My dear Mrs Bourgie

It has been some time since you wrote me about the India Ted but I did not forget it. It has not been my fault that you did not get it sooner. My cousin being sick and then going south for the winter prevented my getting it sooner.

The sample I sent you is as near to yours as the importer could select. It costs .50^c per pound. The reason it is so much cheaper, is because there is only one profit where as in yours there are three.

The tea may be perhaps a little dry for it has been among my cousins things for about a month, he forgetting to mail it to me.

I can get you any quantity you desire above five pounds. Trusting you have not yet purchased your supply and that the sample
