Gentlemen:

As a member of the grand old army I wish to express my appreciation of Julian Ralph's story of a thousand. It is, in a way, the story of every veteran "thousand" in the country. I never would have believed that the story of another fellow's thousand could have been so interesting to me. The incongruities — so to speak — of McClellan & Halleck are perfect. I near Mrs Bull.

I feel that we are to get such a history of that grand Army of the Cumberland as has never been given to the country.

Long live Mrs Bull-telling, hand-writing Tongue!

Sincerely
