Judge Albio W. Tourgee,

My dear sir:-

I very greatly regret that through an oversight your order for advertising did not receive attention until this week. A great pressure of work (including all the business department as well as editorial management) the past few weeks has burdened me so that I have made one or two slips. I had attended to the matter, however, before your letter arrived and the advertisement will duly appear. I ask your pardon for the unintentional neglect.

Yours very respectfully,

H. W. Gleason
