My Dear Judge:- While I have not been favored with a copy of The Basis, and have had no opportunity of investigating, I want to congratulate you on the fact that you are once more in the harness in an earnest effort to bring American citizenship out of the ruts into which it has been drifting during one era of great commercial activities and civic determination. There are great times in which to live; great revolutions are going on about us, and it is for the Conservative-rodicalism of men of your stamp to say what shall come of these changes. I have faith to believe that a higher and better citizenship is to come out of the chaotic public intelligence on municipal misinformation which follows logically upon the fanaticism of modern journalism, but I must confess that I sometimes have misgivings.

Success to The Basis; may it reach its highest ideals in a higher state of civic morality.

Yours truly,

Ben S. Deem.
