My dear Judge:— Your kind note came Sunday. I thank you for thinking to write me when you were so under the weather, but I'm awfully sorry you have to be sick. I sincerely hope to hear soon that you are well & The Basis issuing as usual. I have not much time to write this — before breakfast

I am not likely to have more time soon; for I expect to go to Chicago in the morning. I will keep the "Basis of Calumet" idea in mind & compare it with what "turns up". Thanks for the other! I see the genial editor of the C.H. indulges in a pious reflection of 7 lines, in his first page, that seems to indicate that the Ethiopian's integument is a fast black. It is surely well if one can be sure that what he "binds on Earth shall be bound in Heaven" but I should hate to assume the responsibility of being Vicar of God.

Faithfully yours Willis Mackenzie
