~~C D~~ McDonald & Son 1

Gentlemen; I have yours of ~~yest~~ today.

If you propose to "have ~~charges~~ pay for all changes in copy after type is up," you will have no more copy from me. I would rather begin all over ~~and~~ than submit to such exaction, especially after you have delayed the work nearly a year because you were unwilling ~~to~~ get the type to do it.

I take every pains to save you work. If you had put in Perkins there would have been no trouble. I indicate places for ~~portraits~~ in copy.

Now, that it is to run over the Anniversary, it may as well go over another year and I think your inexcusable delay and neglect has made you liable for damages rather than entitled to them.

I certainly do not care to discuss this matter further by letter but will not.

These are my positions:

1— No changes of consequence have been made in the text except in connection with the footnotes.

2— All these were indicated in the copy except the last one

3 - There were torn off this copy and not indicated in the galley-proof

4 - By this means Perkins was omitted and thus threw all the others out.

In other words, if you had followed copy no changes would have been necessary.

You can let me know whether you prefer to drop the work and take your chances for getting anything or make a reasonable arrangement and continue it. Or, if you are willing to pay for the ~~yours~~ delay, I will pay for the ~~errors~~ changes.
