Erie, Pa., Aug. 12, 1908.

Mr. Diehl:-

Enclosed you will find the mite I feel myself able to give toward the proposed memorial tablet for our dear old friend and teacher who has just passed away. This project is one that must appeal to everyone who has ever attended the High School; for all retrospective thoughts of our alma mater are inseparably intertwined with sweetest memories of her who never found a day cold enough, nor a rain showerless enough, to cause her to neglect her school; who, though the elements may have raged ever so wildly, never found a storm severe enough to keep her from her post of duty.

Though aged and infirm, she was still ministering her sacred trust when death overtook her.

CHAUTAUQUA COUNTY NY GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY 2015

that otherwise would have been merely a wretched accident, was, by this fact, rendered a noble death.

And, after all is said and done, the verdict of our own and succeeding generations must be-

"A NOBLE WOMAN."

Andrew J. Sterrett.