9230

Winfield, Kan. Feb. 16. 1897.

Hon Albert Griffin (Copy)

Topeka, Kansas.

My Dear Sir:-

I desire to say with all possible earnestness and deliberation that in my judgement your book, "The Key Note" is the most important, startling and useful of the many books that have evolved from the present financial discussion.

Properly placed before the public it will be read by multiplied thousands; and all who read it must of necessity be aroused, instructed, and equipped for the greatest political contest of the ages.

It contains in simple, easy but powerful statements the truth about the various branches of the money question — that truth which the great "Common people" of this country must know and embrace in order to perpetuate our government.

The people must read your book. I could wish to perform no higher service in this conflict than to be instrumental in causing millions of our people to read "The Key Note".

Yours Sincerely,

J. D. Botkin.

[Mr Botkin is Congressman at Large, elect for Kansas]