Prof. John C. Dichtl:
Erie Pa:

My dear Professor Dichtl - + I wish very much it might be my privilege to attend the exercises memorial of Miss Hibbourne at the Erie High School on Monday next but unfortunately for me duties here are so imperative that I cannot leave:

The recollections of Miss Hibbourne - which I treasure in memory and which I hold doubtless in common with all the other pupils who came under character and her repeated precepts. She taught her pupils at the same time during which she was imparting the detail instruction of the regular curriculum.

Her life and work forms in my mind as does the life and work of others of her associate teachers - a continuing proof of the tremendous influence which a teacher exercises over the mind and on the after life of every pupil under ^{no other} their care.

It is the glory of the public Schools of Erie that they have had so many faithful and conscientious teachers of which Miss Hibbourne was such a conspicuous and worthy example.

With personal regard for yourself and the other teachers and scholars whom I have the pleasure of knowing.

Yours very sincerely yours her teaching - are so pleasant and helpful and so abundant in deeds of kindness and courtesy on her part that they themselves form a delightful and honorable memorial of this teacher and friend who has been thus helpfully identified with the earlier years of so many of us.

I am glad of the opportunity to join in this honor to her memory. She was a Christian woman of the highest aims and character and no one who ever came under her supervision can forget the lessons of duty and perseverance and faithfulness which both by her own high
