My dear Sompre:

I congratulate you and the country upon your appointment to do Algiers a station. I had a dear friend, Davidson, who was Consul at Bordeaux many years ago; he was appointed by Mr. Lincoln. After I was born we were together in New Orleans when he was City Librarian while I was in reconstruction politics. From him I learned much of the delightful Epicurean in Southern France. You will enjoy it

"# I am in the toils of Rent time and I presume

My good health to a reasonable degree. Even a little rheumatic pain now and then though I am absolutely temperate

I am in the business of the law as usual but I break out occasionally for a spurt in politics. The last election drove to the legislature again where I labored very hard for three months and succeeded in getting into the lead in the House which I prefer to the Senate.

Now is when one of our boys did my work

I can't realize like such a change as I have before me; but it is not for me. However, I am not envious of your good fortune

My literary work, of which I wrote to you, came to a stand still. I have two complete stories, unpublished, of course, which will keep for the Dutch generation perhaps, and another on which I have laid pen store, not yet finished. After a while, when I get through with politics & my article is off and finished I am thinking of going to Europe next year; that would afford me time for the poem
Good luck and the work's progressment
Yours sincerely
Edgar Fawcett
