March 30th 1900.

Dear Miss Oldmixon:

I received this morning Mr Peabody's dossier, and have spent the day in its translation and legalization. I am only now waiting for the "missing links" to make yours complete also. I hoped to have heard from your father also, by this mail, but did not but may in the next that arrives.

I shall be very glad to see you and Mr Peabody, as he writes you will both come up to Bordeaux on his arrival in France.

I am, chere Mademoiselle,

Always your obedient servant,

Albion W. Tourgée

Consul of the United States of America at Bordeaux.
