Gentlemen:-

In re publication of Judge Tourgee's books.

Concerning an edition for Great Britain and the Colonies, I am led to think the best plan would be to forward electrotype plates to you and let you print and sell, paying me per volume a royalty of 10% on the list price-- half being for the use of plates, the other half for authorship-- payment to be made by you when printing an edition of 1000 or more, I to reserve the right to return the plates to New York any time after printing the first edition. But in case you find a large market for the books I should probably have made an extra set of electrotypes to leave with you for future use; any expense incident to shipping the ~~same~~ Plates from New York to London to be borne by you.

Of course it is understood that my American publishers will confine the sale of their edition to the United States and leave to you outside markets for the period of one year, subject to renewal by mutual consent.

Very truly yours,

Emma K. Tourgée
(Address Mrs. A. W. Tourgée.)
