February 19th, 1900.

Dear Mr Howard:

What am I to understand by not receiving any reply to my letter of the 7th inst-- now twelve days ago-- about my chair?

After my full and complete explanation of the matter, I cannot think it is your intention not to return it to me. If I am mistaken in this, there must be some great and radical change in the person I knew and so highly esteemed some twenty years ago-- that he would defraud the widow of her own.

Please let me hear from you-- or if you do not wish to write, send on my chair of which I have great need.

Very truly yours,

E K J
